Show Summary:

This time of year is all about family traditions. Putting up the tree, baking the holiday ham, and reconnecting with friends you haven't seen in a while to raise a glass. It's these traditions that make family, family. Your business is not different. It's a family as well and your business traditions play a huge part in this.

That's our topic for today. I'm going to talk about business traditions, what they are, why you should have them and why they are so important.
